What We Will Explore Together in This Section of Stretch: Creating Global Community in the 21st Century

"A good newspaper is a nation talking to itself."
~ Arthur Miller

In this quote, the writer Arthur Miller captures one of the essential roles of the newspaper: to create dialogue within a nation; to engage the whole community, all of its members, regardless of gender, ethnicity, religious affiliation, profession, or differences in opinion; and to reflect national concerns, both small and large. In the 21st century, however, the "good newspaper" is increasingly a newspaper intended not simply for a single nation—one community—but for the whole globe—many communities. Today, we are all called upon to be members of a global community as well as our own local communities, and there are many global media tools that can allow us to participate in creating, maintaining, and fighting for these larger global communities.

“People don’t actually read newspapers. They step into them every morning like a hot bath.”
~Marshall McLuhan

When you read the newspapers, you are stepping into the lives of others. You are reading about issues—political, economic, ecological, environmental, financial, social—that affect their daily lives, and, sometimes, your own. A collapsed road in the Santa Cruz mountains. A tainted water source in Flint, Michigan. A civilian death in a US airstrike on Iraq. You are reading about your parents, your neighbors, your fellow citizens, your global cousins.

This year, through our membership to the global community of International New York Times readers, we will explore what we can learn about the ways the communities we belong to, both locally and globally, shape our opinions, our ideas, our modes of speaking: How do we create communities? What does it mean to be an engaged community member in an era of digital connectedness, and to what extent do our current tools (social media, digital media, other digital platforms) allow us to be engaged as citizens (members of the global community)?

SJSU studies include an emphasis on diversity. I chose the International New York Times as the main text for our reading precisely because you will find and engage in these pages a full range of voices in our democratic conversation on global issues.

Why You Are Stretching This Year

As part of your general university education, you are offered this course to explore how reading and writing inform university work. Across the university, in all disciplines and majors, reading and writing inform the collaborations between students and faculty as we create new knowledge together.

As they work together to create new knowledge, students and faculty use reading to gather new information and ideas to answer their questions about the subjects they study; they then transform this reading through writing to share their discoveries with others. The Stretch curriculum is designed to engage you in this process of sustained inquiry through reading and writing and, through practice and reflection, give you a chance to develop the habits of mind to strategically use reading and writing as you learn at SJSU.

	Reflect on Your Own Learning: The Stretch Course Learning Outcomes (CLO) Log in to our Canvas course. You will find there an exercise that allows you to begin right now your reflection on your learning. You will explore in this Canvas activity the 5 main learning goals of our Stretch together this year: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Read to learn.• Read to write.• Write with an increased awareness of the process.• Read and write with an increased awareness of the language you use.• Reflect on and assess your own writing, process and product.

What You Will Learn in Stretch English I and II

The General Education guidelines for instructors outline five broad learning outcomes for all courses that satisfy Area A2. I have designed this course to ensure that you meet these outcomes.

GE Learning Outcomes (GELO)

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. demonstrate the ability to read actively and rhetorically
2. demonstrate the ability to perform the essential steps in the writing process (prewriting, organizing, composing, revising, and editing) and demonstrate an awareness of said performance
3. articulate an awareness of and write according to the rhetorical features of texts, such as purpose, audience, context, and rhetorical appeals
4. demonstrate the ability to integrate their ideas and those of others by explaining, analyzing, developing, and criticizing ideas effectively in several genres
5. demonstrate college-level language use, clarity, and grammatical proficiency in writing

For more information on the Stretch Curriculum designed to meet these learning outcomes, see the Stretch English Program Syllabus: <http://www.sjsu.edu/english/ENGLgreensheets/2016ENGLfall/Stretch%20Program%20Syllabus.pdf>.

This year we will collaborate to answer the question: What is the relationship between 21st century-literacies and democratic engagement as citizens in a global world? We will use reading and writing to collaborate in researching this question, and writing about it. You will come to class everyday ready to do writing—that is, to explore ideas, share research and reading, analyze source materials, critique samples and workshop drafts. In short, to write. Each class session will engage you in activities that work toward the current essay assignment or project and in reflection on those activities to observe the reading and writing strategies you are practicing and their practical effects. Our goal is, by May, for you to have at the ready a set of reading and writing practices that will sustain your college study.

You will want to save this daily class activity and reflection. Some of it will be saved to your Canvas account; you will also want to keep a copy of your work on your laptop. (You always have a backup!) So bring your own laptop or tablet to each class, or check one out in the library. (See the Stretch program syllabus for information on campus technology access.)

Where to Find Course Assignments and Materials.

Course materials such as syllabus, handouts, assignment sheets, and some readings can be found on the Canvas learning management system course website. You are responsible to check the messaging system through MySJSU to learn of any updates to our schedule.

Where to Purchase the Texts You Need.

Reading is an integral part of writing. The following texts are part of the extended investigation we will conduct this year into the relationship between literacy and democracy; reading these texts, you will practice reading to learn, to reflect, and to respond as part of your daily learning practice. All books are required.

The following textbooks are available through Amazon, or the publisher.

Ballenger, Bruce. The Curious Writer, Brief a la Carte Edition (5th Edition)
ISBN-13: 9780134121444

Williams, Joseph M. Style: Lessons in Clarity and Grace (11th Edition)
ISBN-13: 978-0321898685

Wolf, Naomi. Give Me Liberty: A Handbook for American Revolutionaries (2008)
ISBN-13: 978-1416590569

Subscription to the International New York Times: Your Window into 21st-Century Literacies' Role in Democracy

Together we are embarking on an exploration of the role reading and writing play in being a citizen in a democracy. To study that relationship, we are going to read the newspaper and share our learning and experiences in writing. The information we generate together will help you, in your final assignment, to assess the role of 21st-century literacies in our democratic practice as citizens.

You will purchase a digital version of The New York Times for the full year (4 weeks @ 99 cents, then $1.88 per week). This digital version will allow you to keep a personal archive of stories you are following for your writing assignments in this course. Use the following link to access the educational subscription page. You will use your MySJSU account (@sjsu.edu) to set up a special education rate for the subscription:

<http://www.nytimes.com/subscriptions/edu/lp1474.html?campaignId=48U9F>

Other readings (newspaper articles, public speeches, and scholarly articles) on 21st century literacy and democracy are located on Canvas, among the Assignments. These shared readings will help us to develop a shared context of reading to inform our arguments.

The Work You Will Do in This Course: An Overview

The Core Stretch Curriculum. Table 1 outlined the major writing assignments for Stretch English. All sections of Stretch English share this core curriculum. The fall writing assignments include: A benchmark essay and 2 critical reading and reflection essays, written in class; a personal essay; an essay for a public forum; a self-reflection essay (written in class). The spring writing assignments include: An interview project, a profile essay, a critical/reflection essay (written in class), an ethnographic project, a critical essay, and a self-reflection essay.

Midyear and Year-End Self-Reflection and Portfolio Review

At the end of the fall and spring terms you will submit a portfolio for Stretch instructors to review. These portfolios will ask you to enter into an assessment of your writing with two members of the Stretch faculty: me and one of my colleagues.

Our Daily Learning Activities.

The schedule of reading and writing assignments at the end of this syllabus breaks this work down into daily activities you will engage both in and out of class. Most of this work will be completed in Canvas.

The Time You Will Spend on This Work

Like all faculty at SJSU, I have designed this course to help you achieve the learning goals that define its role in your progress to earn a degree. In a 3-unit course like this one, faculty expect that students will spend a minimum of forty-five hours for each unit of credit (normally three hours per unit per week). This time includes preparing for class, participating in course activities, completing assignments, and so on. More details about student workload can be found in University Policy S12-3 at <http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/S12-3.pdf>.

While all students will complete these same assignments, the course design does not and cannot account for individual needs of each student. There may be added work you need to do. You may need extra hours for tutoring; you may take longer to read texts so that you can look up words you find unfamiliar; you may need more time for editing.

Your goal in this class is to learn what you need as a writer in order to develop your skills as a writer—and to get what you need. That will take commitment, of your time and your attention, to the work of this class; commitment to seek out the support and resources you need, both in class and out of class. Be sure to factor into your study plan for this semester, the time and attention you need to develop your writing skills.

How Your Work Will Be Assessed and Graded in This Course

Feedback on your work is intended to help you apply lessons from class as you complete assignments, and to transfer lessons learned from one assignment to the next. Grades are intended as a tool for assessment and reporting of outcomes during a course of instruction.

Note that “All students have the right, within a reasonable time, to know their academic scores, to review their grade-dependent work, and to be provided with explanations for the determination of their course grades.” See University Policy F13-1 at <http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/F13-1.pdf> for more details.

Feedback for Individual Assignments

We will both assess how effectively your finished writing is achieving the goals outlined for the course; this part of the grading will detail how effectively you are performing the skills that you are learning and practicing in the class. Your grade on an assignment will measure your progress and achievement so that you can manage your learning through the full thirty weeks of instruction.

Rubric: For each assignment, you will be given a rubric that details how the assignment will be evaluated and scored. Typically, the assignment will be evaluated both as a process completed and as a product of that process. As your writing coach, I will mark essays and make notes for revision on the rubric.

How Assignments Are Weighted Assignments to Determine Grades

Fall 2017: Grades in the fall are based on measured progress toward proficiency in the learning objectives outlined above. To earn credit in the course, you will need to have completed all the assigned work, and you will need to demonstrate measurable progress in at least 3 out of 4 (75%) of the CLO categories to earn credit (CR) in English 1AF.

Canvas Discussions

For most classes, you will be required to post a Discussion on Canvas. I will post a prompt and you will write a response to it. You will post these under Discussions on our Canvas site. (Please enter them in the text box rather than as attachments.) We will use these responses in various ways as springboards for our discussions in class and for your writing assignments. Some will be creative, while others will be more critical. I will not accept late Discussion posts.

How I Calculate Course Grades

In Stretch English, your course grade is based on the grades you earn through both semesters on the work you produce. Final grades will adhere to this grading scale:

A = 93-100% A- = 90-92.9%	B+ = 87-89.9% B = 83-86.9% B- = 80-82.9%	C+ = 77-79.9% C = 73-76.9% C- = 70-72.9%	D+ = 67-69.9% D = 63-66.9% D- = 60-62.9% F = 0%-59.9%

How to Get the Most Out of Our Time

My policies are intended to ensure the smooth operation of the class and to encourage a professional working environment congenial to all.

- Office hours are yours: you paid for them; use them. University professors expect students to seek out what they need as they take charge of their own learning outcomes. We make ourselves available during office hours to provide students access to our time as a key resource in their studies.
- Deadlines must be honored. I do not accept late work.
- Email can be used to schedule appointments outside of office hours or to advise me of an absence. I will use email to update you on schedule changes or to advise you of my own absence. I cannot accept papers or any other assignments via email. Email is not a suitable vehicle for student-teacher conferencing.
- Format your papers as single-spaced pages. This practice will conserve paper when printing. (Don't try this in your other classes without clearing it with your professor first; it is not standard form in MLA.)
- Your work is public in this class, part of our collective inquiry into writing, reading, and democracy. We will share work in Canvas regularly. I reserve the right to publish your work to the class as part of our workshop activities.
- Makeups for in class work can be made up only with documentation of a compelling reason for missing the planned work in the first place. This includes all discussions, activities, in-class essays, and workshops. I will expect an email advising me of the absence and requesting the makeup. Class work missed for non-compelling reasons (sleeping late; vacation) cannot be made up. Please do not ask.
- Workshops are an essential part of the writer's working experience. Your participation in workshops is critical to your success in this class, and mandatory. These workshops are conducted in class: You must bring to workshops a completed draft, and you must turn in to me the workshop copies as well as the final, revised draft of the essay. (Only with documented reason and prior approval will I allow you to complete workshops with your group via email.)

Where Can I Find Information about University Policies?

The Office of Graduate and Undergraduate Programs (GUP) maintains university-wide policy information relevant to all courses, such as academic integrity, accommodations, etc. You may find all syllabus-related University Policies and resources information listed on GUP's Syllabus Information web page at <http://www.sjsu.edu/gup/syllabusinfo/>

Where Can I Find Information about Earning A2 Credit and Clearing Remediation?

The Stretch program syllabus is located in our Canvas files and on the Department website:

<http://www.sjsu.edu/english/ENGLgreensheets/2016ENGLfall/Stretch%20Program%20Syllabus.pdf>.

In that syllabus you will find information about how, in Stretch I and II, you can earn A2 credit and, if you need to, clear your remediation in English.

Schedule of Reading & Writing in Stretch English for Fall 2017 & Spring 2018

While I expect the general framework of assignment due dates to stay the same, the details of the daily schedule will be adjusted in Canvas as we work together this year to develop your writing. I will notify you when I update this schedule. All updates will also be on our Canvas homepage, which I will revise on a daily basis as needed.

If you can, please bring a laptop or other internet-capable device (phone?) to class.
