Course Information

About Me:

I have worked as a lecturer of writing for ten years (10), eight (8) with UCSC and SJSU. I have a PhD in Composition and Applied Linguistics and an MFA in Writing and Poetics--my BA is in English.

My research and writing interests include anti-racism, critical pedagogy, and writing. I love to read, my favorite authors are Octavia Butler, Gabriel Garcia Marquez, Haruki Murakami and Thomas Pynchon.

I swim, run and hike. I have a yoga and meditation routine, and I am a vegan.

Diversity Statement

This course is grounded in the idea that the human experience is defined by an intersectional and positional understanding of existence. Intersectional in that every individual is comprised on multiple, intersecting identities. Positional in that each one of these identities creates the opportunity for both privilege and oppression within society. The ethical root of this praxis within this course begins with critical race theory (CRT) and the idea that education in the United States is built upon white supremacist and racist constructs. First, within the institutional barriers to access that are the legacy of colonialism and racial/ethnic segregation. Second, within the epistemological racism rooted in colonial and racist ideologies of eurocentrism, white-supremacy, xenophobia, and other marginalizing behavior like sexism, misogyny, homophobia, transphobia to name but a few. This ethical alignment is a dedication to the openness of the educator-learner ecology—an awareness of the unique, situated experience of every individual that is involved. This pedagogical lens demands an active anti-racist pedagogy, which vigilantly seeks to dismantle barriers to access and other remanent of institutional and epistemological racism.

Classroom Protocols

Academic Dishonesty and Plagiarism

For this course, the use of any form of Generative A.I. sourced content (ChatGPT, Grammarly, etc.) will be considered an act of academic dishonesty. TurnIt in is activated for all assignments and it will be utilized alongside a number of strategies to analyze your coursework for Generative A.I.

The Norton Field Guide describes plagiarism as “using other people’s words and ideas without acknowledgment” (The Norton Field Guide 491). Specifically, plagiarism occurs when “(1) using another writer’s words or ideas without acknowledging the source, (2) using another’s writer’s exact words without quotation marks, and (3) paraphrasing or summarizing someone else’s ideas using language or sentence structures that are too close to theirs” (The Norton Field Guide 495).

Right to Remove

If any student becomes a threat or impediment to the health, safety, and educational growth of the class, a fellow classmate, or the instructor—the instructor, the program and the department reserve the right to remove the student from the course. Furthermore, the issue will be documented and taken to the university for further review.

ENGL 2

This course is open to all students needing to fulfill GE Area A3 (Critical Thinking). It is not open to students who have successfully completed ENGL 1B.

Prerequisite: ENGL 1A or Stretch English (with a grade of C- or better)

Course Content

Diversity: SJSU studies include an emphasis on diversity. You will engage in integrated reading, Writing, and oral assignments to construct your own arguments on complex issues (such as diversity and ethnicity, class and social equality) that generate meaningful public debate. Readings for the course will include writers of different ethnicities, genders, and socio-economic classes.

Writing: You will write a series of essays informed by research and articulating fully developed arguments about complex issues. Assignments emphasize those skills and activities in writing and thinking that produce the persuasive argument and the critical essay, each of which demands analysis, interpretation, and evaluation. Writing assignments give you repeated practice in prewriting, organizing, writing, revising, and editing. This class requires a minimum of 6000 words, at least 4000 of which must be in revised final draft form.

Logic: You will learn methods of argument analysis, both rhetorical and logical, that will allow you to identify logical structures (such as warrants, evidence, qualification, rebuttal; enthymemes and syllogisms) and distinguish common logical fallacies.

Reading: In addition to being writing intensive, ENGL 2 is also a reading course. You will read a variety of critical and argumentative texts to help develop your skills for understanding the logical structure of argumentative writing.

Oral: You will be presenting your arguments orally to class both as an individual and as part of a group.

Grading Scale

A letter grade system of A to F will be used, including pluses and minuses. Formal writing assignments will be evaluated by your professor; final grades will be calculated using this scale..

- In addition to feedback from 2 peers, if you submit the rough stage (Outline/Rough Draft) of the project, I will provide direct feedback.
- If you do not have a drafting stage prepared, you will forgo the feedback. You may still submit your work for partial credit. You may still visit the writing center for direct feedback, or visit me during office hours and I will answer a few questions regarding the assignment. But, you will not receive the same depth of feedback as will be provided during the peer review.

Participation and Word Count

All assignments unless otherwise noted will have a 350 word minimum word count requirement.

The Participation Grade is calculated out of 100. The final score considers:

Your Percentage of Attendance

- Classes missed

- Late arrivals

How much late work you submitted

- The total amount of assignments submitted past the deadline

How much work you are missing

- The total amount of "0" you have for assigned work

Your final grade in terms of the total performance to date with the course work and material.

Absence

If you need to miss class take the follow steps and I will excuse your absence:

1. Email me in advance as to why you are missing class.

Time Commitment

Success in ENGL 2 is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of 45 hours over the length of the course (normally three hours per unit per week) for instruction, preparation/studying, or course related activities, including but not limited to internships, labs, and clinical practica. Other course structures will have equivalent workload expectations as described in the syllabus.

Final Examination or Evaluation

In ENGL 2, our learning culminates in a digital Reflection and Portfolio Assignment. In this assignment, we will gather samples of our writing that demonstrate our learning; we will write a reflection essay that explains what we have learned, how we learned it, and how we will use it in future learning; and we will submit our portfolio for consideration to other people in the first-year writing program. This is our chance to identify and articulate what we've learned and what we'll take forward with us into future learning/writing experiences.

Welcome to this General Education course.

SJSU's General Education Program establishes a strong foundation of versatile skills, fosters curiosity about the world, promotes ethical judgment, and prepares students to engage and contribute responsibly and cooperatively in a multicultural, information-rich society. General education classes integrate areas of study and encourage progressively more complex and creative analysis, expression, and problem solving.

The General Education Program has three goals:

Goal 1: To develop students' core competencies for academic, personal, creative, and professional pursuits.

Goal 2: To enact the university's commitment to diversity, inclusion, and justice by ensuring that students have the knowledge and skills to serve and contribute to the well-being of local and global communities and the environment.

Goal 3: To offer students integrated, multidisciplinary, and innovative study in which they pose challenging questions, address complex issues, and develop cooperative and creative responses.

More information about the General Education Program Learning Outcomes (PLOs) can be found on the GE website \(https://sjsu.edu/general-education/ge-requirements/overview/learning-outcomes.php\).

Course Goals

ENGL 2 is an introductory writing course that focuses on the relationship between language and logic when composing arguments. Building on the skills acquired in ENGL 1A, you will learn to reason effectively and think rhetorically to invent, demonstrate, and express arguments clearly, logically, and persuasively.

1. Students will investigate two questions: 1) What is anti-racist about writing? 2) How does an anti-racist academic identity support academic writing and research?
2. Students work to develop an understanding of their emerging academic identity through writing anchor concepts and research threshold concepts.
3. Students will begin with an intersectional and positional exploration of their experiences with education and literacy, writing, and research.
4. Students will then research and develop a scholarly review of literature on a topic based on personal inquiry.
5. Students will undertake a final transmodal assignment in the development of the Digital short based on their writing and research for the term.

Course Learning Outcomes (CLOs)

GE Area A3: Critical Thinking and Writing

Area A3 courses develop students' understanding of the relationship of language to logic. By engaging students in complex issues requiring critical thinking and effective argumentation, A3 courses develop students' abilities to research and analyze important topics and to construct their own arguments on issues that generate meaningful public debate and deliberation. Courses include explicit instruction and practice in inductive and deductive reasoning as well as identification of formal and informal fallacies of language and thought. Completion of Area A2 (Written Communication I) with a minimum grade of C- is a prerequisite for enrollment in Area A3. Completion of Area A3 with a grade of C- or better is a CSU graduation requirement.

GE Area A3 Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of an Area A3 course, students should be able to:

1. locate, interpret, evaluate, and synthesize evidence in a comprehensive way, including through library research; and integrate research findings into oral and written arguments through appropriate citation and quotation;
2. use a range of rhetorical and logical strategies to articulate and explain their positions on complex issues in dialogue with other points of view;
3. identify and critically evaluate the assumptions in and the contexts of arguments; and
4. use inductive and deductive logic to construct valid, evidence-supported arguments and draw valid conclusions.

Writing Practice: Students will write a minimum of 6000 words, at least 4000 of which must be in revised final draft form.
