CATALOG DESCRIPTION

Examination of terrorist organizations and activities, definitions of terrorism, and social and political consequences of terrorism. Includes policy responses to terrorism, including roles of intelligence and security agencies, and impacts on law, rights, and liberties.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Terrorism is one of the major problems that endanger human security throughout the world. Since 9/11 the successive US governments have been spearheading a global war on terror that requires a substantial commitment of resources. Organizations like Hamas in the Palestinian territories and ISIS in Syria and Iraq have brought terrorism again to the center-stage of public discourse in the United States and the world. Due to the complexity of terrorism, which is a tactic used by individuals, groups, and states for a variety of goals, no single course can give you a full understanding of the topic. The purpose of this course is to provide the tools necessary to become educated consumers of research and news in the post- 9/11 world.

COURSE GOALS

The Department of Justice Studies is committed to scholarly excellence. Therefore, the Department promotes academic, critical, and creative engagement with language (i.e., reading and writing) throughout its curriculum. A sustained and intensive exploration of language prepares students to think critically and to act meaningfully in interrelated areas of their lives—personal, professional, economic, social, political, ethical, and cultural. Graduates of the Department of Justice Studies leave San José State University prepared to enter a range of careers and for advanced study in a variety of fields; they are prepared to more effectively identify and ameliorate injustice in their personal, professional and civic lives. Indeed, the impact of literacy is evident not only within the span of a specific course, semester, or academic program but also over the span of a lifetime.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

- ✓ Understand the phenomenon of terrorism as distinguishable from other forms of political violence;
- ✓ Be familiar with the theoretical underpinnings of terrorism;
- ✓ Understand the rationality of terrorist violence as opposed to the common perception of terrorism as acts of deranged individuals;
- ✓ Identify causal factors that drive terrorist violence;
- ✓ Understand the risks to human security presented by terrorist violence;
- ✓ Identify and discuss legal methods of responding to and controlling terror groups;
- ✓ Articulate course concepts in both written and verbal form; and
- ✓ Possess a body of knowledge and skills suitable for further academic study or professional training on the topics of terrorism and security.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS AND ASSIGNMENTS

Online Discussion (20%): Active participation in discussions is a necessary and integral part of the course. Each week there will be an online discussion, through Canvas, on specific readings and key issues or current events related to that week's overall topic. Students will be expected to discuss the implications of the issue or event to our understanding of terrorism-related events in the United States and the world.

Article Critique (10%): This assignment will require students to write a short paper (not less than 1,000 words) as a critique to an article provided by the instructor (available on Canvas). Detailed instructions pertaining to this assignment are available on Canvas. This assignment is due Sunday March 29th.

Substantial Paper (20%): This assignment will require students to select a terrorist group (or its prevailing activity) and report its origins and evolution; the structure and operation of the organization; its primary target(s); and its impact on society. Detailed instructions pertaining to this assignment are available on Canvas. This assignment is due Sunday April 19th.

Midterm and Final Examinations (50%): Students will be administered a Midterm and a Final Examination, each worth 25% of their final grade. Each timed exam will occur online and will cover material from lectures (including all media presented) and assigned readings. Each exam will be non-cumulative and comprised of multiple choice, true/false, and short-answer questions.
